Bucyrus Community Hospital Honors Outstanding Nurses

BUCYRUS – June 3, 2011 – In lieu of National Nurses Week a few weeks ago, Bucyrus Community Hospital continued their tradition of recognizing outstanding nursing employees and awarded the 2011 Nursing Employees of the Year. Janelle Baldosser, RN, ICU, and Deb Davis, LPN, Ambulatory Surgery Unit, were presented with the awards.

Four nominations were submitted to recognize nursing employees whose dedication, professionalism, and quality of care demonstrated a commitment to nursing excellence. One LPN and one RN receive this distinguished award each year. Janice Allen, RN, MedSurg and Sara Baldosser, ER Nurse Manager were also nominated. “It was such a nice surprise,” Davis commented. “I’ve been here at Bucyrus Hospital for 31 years; worked in maternity, outpatient surgery, and MedSurg. It’s my home away from home and it’s a great place to work.”

Jeanne Perkins, VP of Patient Care Services commented, “All of the nominations were outstanding and speak for the nursing excellence which these women model for Bucyrus Community Hospital.” Jerry Morasko, CEO, who was present during the award ceremony, thanked the BCH staff and all of the nurses for their dedication and efforts to provide excellent care to the people BCH serves.

“I’m honored to have received the recognition as the BCH RN Nursing Employee of the Year,” Baldosser stated. “I couldn’t ask for a more rewarding career and opportunity to work with such wonderful co-workers.”
